TERMS OF BUSINESS

CASH

Plants are shipped as desired by the customer and at customer's expense.

We pride ourselves on the health, vigorous plants that we grow. We are very careful not to send out plants that are not cared for properly for transplanting. These plants are prepared for your benefit and pleasure. WE DO NOT GUARANTEE PLANTS TO LIVE OR GROW AFTER LEAVING OUR HANDS.

We are always glad for you to visit the nursery, where we have regular shows all through the season.

We have possibly over four hundred varieties.

This catalog includes only a partial list of our plants. If the variety you wish is not listed here, write us for information concerning it, as we will very likely have it.

We are trying at all times to correct names of Camellias, but are afraid it will be some time before this work is complete. We will as yet have to go by description and use the more familiar names.

THE FIRST CARE OF CAMELLIA JAPONICAS AND SASANQUAS

Do not remove the burlap around the ball. Do not mound dirt up around the plant after planting to get drainage. But the plant should be planted on bed higher than regular area. Do not cultivate Camellias or Azaleas. Camellias and Azaleas have to be well drained, they cannot stand wet feet. It is best to plant in good well drained soil, something like rich garden soil, or soil made up of leaf mold, peat humus, peat moss, pond muck, or first two or three inches of top soil from under oak trees is the best. But do not place this under the ball, instead it should be worked around the plant mixed well with the soil. After this has been completed you can sprinkle liberal supply of barn yard or cow lot well rotted manure on the surface to be watered in. Give this two or three soakings to re-establish the plant, see that all air pockets are filled, then is time for your mulch. It is important to see that the plant has not settled too much as the crown roots have to be near the surface. When watering wet the ground thorough. Wait several days or a week and water again. The water has to soak through to draw air through the root system, which is important. Keep well mulched at all times. Oak leaves is one of the best as it has fertilizer value as well as the mulch. Pine straw, cane pummings, grass trimmings, this keeps the ground porous and cool, besides conserving moisture. Camellias do better if planted in partial shade. Many are planting pines for this purpose. However, the deep colors can stand the sun if the plants are well mulched.

If the plants should need fertilizer, a mixture of cotton seed, meal and super phosphate two parts of cotton, seed meal to one of super phosphate well mixed, use sparingly two or three times a year, not later than July.

COLEMAN'S FINE CAMELLIAS

OBSERVATIONS OF S. D. COLEMAN

Camellias are small trees, not like annuals or field crops such as corn, cotton and such, which are fast growers and heavy feeders and need lots of chemical fertilizers. Trees on the other hand are slow growers and take on fertilizer very slowly, of course this does not mean that they do not need good rich soil, which can be made up of leaf mold, well rotted manure that has been well mixed with soil, nature's plant food.

Over feeding with chemical fertilizer one should keep in mind that Camellias are small trees and their demand for nitrogen and other nutrients are small, in fact if you will start off with rich soil and keep well mulched, a little cotton seed meal or tankage two or three times a year will possibly help furnish all the nitrogen and other nutrients needed, or a good oak leaf mulch will keep plenty of nitrogen available for the plant, besides other nutrients. A plant too heavily fertilized with commercial fertilizer may cause breaking down of cells and be subject to fungus troubles. To prevent fungus troubles so far as possible is better than trying to cure it, however if it should develop, I have found a good coating of enamel paint over infected parts is the best remedy to date. This seems to smother the fungus, but let's work on a preventative.

SHADE means partial about a fourth up to half shade. Acid soil pH 5.5 is best, pH 4 is too much, best result is obtained by using oak leaves, peat moss, pine straw as mulch, a little cotton seed meal will help if needed. Don't use too much Aluminum Sulphate, Sulphur is slower in action and better, but use lightly if necessary.

WATCH YOUR PLANTS

If it becomes necessary to use fertilizer, use it sparingly or in very small quantities at the time, over several applications, remembering the rule will not work that if a little will do a little good a little more will be better. That's where you will have trouble.

WE ARE ALWAYS GLAD FOR YOU TO VISIT THE NURSERY WHERE WE HAVE CAMELLIAS IN BLOOM FROM OCTOBER TILL APRIL. AZALEAS START IN MARCH. THE NATIVE AZALEA TRAIL IS A SIGHT TO SEE, LASTING WELL INTO THE SUMMER A VERY LARGE COLLECTION.
